... SOPHISTICATION

Over the last decade, LightPartner® has gained a solid international reputation as an expert on lighting solutions for cruise and merchant ships. Our wide range of high-quality, state-of-the-art luminaires is setting and meeting high standards. At your side when expertise is in demand, we are your partner for lighting equipment from spare parts and special models for particular purposes to applications using new technologies.

Outdoor lighting fixtures on vessels must provide high reliability and withstand environmental stress factors such as high winds and salty air. Such formidable challenges require sophisticated durability solutions. Through the use of high-grade stainless steel, processed with excellent workmanship, LightPartner® can offer corrosion-resistant products for any purpose.

Designing the interior lighting of a cruise ship is a challenging task that can only be efficiently managed with the cooperation of all partners in the process.

Application areas vary from decorative architectural features and lighting accents to installations creating a sense of direction, or setting a mood in hospitality sectors.

LightPartner® provides you with expert advice and the appropriate material for your specific application. We evaluate your individual concepts to help you carry them out in the most efficient — and effective — way. To meet any demand, our modern lighting systems offer a variety of shapes and functions as well as great versatility. Apart from conventional lighting, we use LED technology which opens up entirely new dimensions of working with light. LEDs offer designers exciting new opportunities to implement complex lighting solutions in many different fields. Their benefits for users include low heat radiation and extreme compactness, vibration resistance and an ultra-long service life.

... PLEASURE

Competition within the cruise ship industry is intensifying with rising standards in convenience and luxury. Passengers expect a pleasant atmosphere. Light, being both a key creative element and architectural detail, can be used as an instrument for creating atmosphere. In its various forms and variety of colors, light has a wide range of positive effects on our bodies and our minds.

Lighting not only pleases our eyes but can either be stimulating and activating, evoke a good mood, or calm and relax, whatever is appropriate.

Light is always emotive and directs one's view. We create a special feeling in space with regard to the last detail and technical knowledge. Individual lighting solutions from LightPartner® create high luminance, impressive color effects and points of emphasis. Experience is the key to harmony at first glance.
